Operation Danubius 2011

- The operation DANUBIUS aimed at to take border policing and criminal control at the Rhine-Main-Danube Canal, which was also part of the AQUAPOL 2011 operational activities.
- This operation was stretched to the whole Danube waterway. The objective of this mission was to carry out thorough checks on crew, passengers and cargo of the ships at the external Schengen water border by police in the cooperative involvement of customs and other organisations (such as Nature Protection Authority, Labour Inspection Authority, Forestry, Water Authority) and with support of INTERPOL and FRONTEX.
- This operation was carried out independently by the participating Danube countries but information was collected in Hungary
- Temporary FPO was operating in Mohács (GO's were deployed: 2 from INTERPOL, 2 from FX)

Operation Danubius 2011

Along the Hungarian Danube section tasks were the followings:

- Detection of illegal immigration (illegal border crossings, facilitation, forgery concerning travel documents, overstaying...)
- Detection of drug smuggling (more effective activities along river drug routes)
- Counterfeiting, smuggling, illegal receiving on customs goods, document forgery Vehicle smuggling and vehicle theft – related to boats, ships other watercrafts
- Illegal waste disposal, environmental protection
Stolen goods / petroleum derivatives, building materials etc. / on trails)
- Identification of wanted persons and objects (such as stolen art, weapons, precursors and chemicals transported without a permit)
